Benefits	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Minimal disclosure in the public domain</li> <li>• Simple to prepare</li> <li>• Automatically show a true and fair view</li> <li>• No need to revalue investment properties</li> <li>• Fair value accounting avoided as is the need to account for equity-settled share-based payments</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• No significant change from FRSSE (2008)</li> <li>• Familiar</li> <li>• Gives entities the chance to get used to the idea of a new framework</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Limited disclosure</li> <li>• Uses full FRS 102 principles for measurement and recognition</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Easier to use than IFRS!</li> </ul>
Disadvantages	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Accounting still primarily based on IFRS</li> <li>• More information will need to go into the tax computation</li> <li>• Maybe commercially damaging to credit rating and not fit for purpose when potential financiers, suppliers and customers review them</li> <li>• Amortised cost calculations still needed, which may be challenging.</li> <li>• Different P&amp;L format</li> <li>• Could be difficult to justify fees</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Shelf life of one year</li> <li>• Delaying the inevitable</li> <li>• Lacking modernity</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• FRS 102 measurement principles without modification thus challenging</li> <li>• The limited disclosures required by law might conflict with the overarching requirement for these financial statements to give a true and fair view.</li> <li>• Related party transactions which are not on normal commercial terms will be put on public record</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Full application of FRS 102</li> <li>• Full disclosure required</li> <li>• Related party transactions will be put on public record</li> </ul>

SUPPORTING NOTES

1. For the avoidance of doubt, “Gross assets” means Fixed assets + current assets
2. Please note that if an entity early adopts the new size criteria, it appears that FRSSE 2015 could be used for the 2015 year end. However, there is an expectation that additional clarity will be issued on this point, as the intention of the new legislation is understood to be that if the new size criteria are used, the new accounting framework should also be used.
3. The consideration as to whether the entity requires an audit only considers the size of the company above. If an entity is part of a group, users need to consider the size of the group worldwide and the presence of any listed entity in the group to determine whether the entity is exempt from audit
4. Key thing to note – FRS 105 and FRS 102 Section 1A are still at Exposure Draft stage (FRED 58 and 59 respectively) at the time of preparing this schedule (June 2015).
5. Please note that this summary does not take into account the possibility of using FRS 101 nor IFRS.
6. Small entities are not prevented from using full FRS 102. However, this summary assumes that small entities will take advantage of one of the available small company reporting frameworks. If a small entity adopts full FRS 102 voluntarily, the section 444 exemption would still be available.
